The reconstruction policy of the Radicals will be complete before in at elections, the States so long excluded will have been admitted, nigros suffrage established and the carpet baggers in estited in their seats in both branches of congress. There is no possibility of changing the political character of the Senate, even if the Democrate should elect their President and a majority of the popular brunch of Congress. We cannot, therefore, undo the Radica' plun of reconstruction by congressional action, the Senate will continue a bar to its appeal. Must we submit to it. How can it in overthrown? I benutifel young lady of seventsen or ciguises years returned to her home in Bouth Nashrille fries an academy in Kentucky about five roles are considered with the previous term, and came away movered with escalasis bosons. She was remarked by the principal of the academy to her parents about four months ago, in answer to some laquiries they made about her, that she uppeared to him a marvel of perfection in everything, which goes to make up a charming and inverselve prouse lady. On her arrival home after a long and everes term of over twenty weeks hard study, she did not, as was exposed of her, the hontersy, the applied herself more assidously him were to the study of psychology and the hondersy, the applied herself more assidously him were to the study of psychology and the heology of the fathers.

As time were on her study and abstraction increased to an alarming extent. At length a little brother of hers died, of whom she was exceedingly fond, and so much affected was she by the event that she awound select it times, in the sat fit she remained four hours, and very serious prynchosions were entertained that she would not recover. There was the faintest symptom if life in her during these four hours; her eyes rece closed, her breathing imperceptible, and a set fluster about the heart. They occur as six six days before her own death. When thor.

Rames concentrated in her head, and assumed the shape of an intense spark of fire, more brilliant than the sun. She gazed upon this spark, knowit to be the spark of life, with considerable arprehension. It fluttered for a time and shot out at the top of her head. The moment this happened she lost all connection with the worth forgot it altogether—and found hereoff in anoth experience after this, as she related it, i ly she saw the spark of fire again. Press uty she saw the spark of fire again. It began to radiate in the same channels. She heard the voices of her friends; the sharp flory lances went slowly down her leps and arms; slowly they approached her toos, and at last became imperceptible. Bhe opened her eye, and was helped into a sixting position. Her health was apparently restored, but not the same calmaces of soul she possessed before. She burnel herself from sight day and night, neither ate nor drank, but prayed, and on the fifth day after her sincillar experience she sauk. She called her parents and relatives around her, and began to feet happy. She spoke to them words of comfort and hope, and died with a heavenly smile upon her fair face.
